I have installed PresentationClock app from here and downloaded its version (20071010.5.0.2) from here. When I run the app, it's crashing and when I click the "OK" button on the crash report, it will go back to the dock/window. But it's not a huge problem because the app still working properly. (In my experience, it's really very useful app and I don't need to uninstall it!) Did I do something wrong when I install the app? Please help me... P.S. I am using Mac OS X 10.8.4 (12F36). A: I have found the problem that cause the crash of PresentationClock. It's the font that I selected by using the "Choose a Font from the list" in the dialog box. After I remove the font that causing the crash, it works fine again. And I found that there is no problem in the app using default font (Calibri) by default. The problem is the app use special font by default. To use the special font of app, the app need to be updated and download the new version. PS. And if you just want to keep the app you can download the new version and delete the app that you download from here.
